

Butterflies

Elephant Parade

I never leave my home these days
I stay inside too much
I stay inside too much
I just keep waiting

I watched a toxic silo
Right down by my house
Right down by my house
My landlord's smiling

And drink my lukewarm coffee
And raise my kids nearby
And raise my kids nearby
And then come lucky

And when it comes to heartening
The chasing in my dreams
And I imagine great escaped adventures

And it's really hard to catch
And it's really hard to touch
And it's really hard to catch
When feet are planted

It's really hard to hold you
It's really hard to know
The final destination
Of running dark side

Butterflies
On my wall
Butterflies
On my wall
When will you call me
When will you call me
