

Sister of the Sea

Maggie Clifford

You took me by the hand, we walked through the sand, and you held me in the waves. The sea was open, now I'm broken up. Sister of the sea, you knew me. And I knew you to be free. You howled with the moon, and the sun he rose too soon, over you my sister of the sea. Ohohohoh ahahah ahh. Mmmm mmmmm mmmmmmmmm. My memory's all but lost, except for the waves that tossed me through your arms. I look for you and cry, like a child in the night. You've gone away. Sister of the sea, you knew me. And I knew you to be free. You howled with the moon, and the sun he rose too soon, over you my sister of the sea. You howled with the moon, and the sun he rose too soon, over you my sister of the sea. Ohohohoh ahahah ahh. Mmmm mmmmm mmmmmmmmm.
