

Every Single Summer

MaRynn Taylor

Every single summer
I still think about how
We used to ride around town
In your hand me down ford

Blue eyes on a boat dock
Making small talk
Trying not to say the wrong thing
Dancing to a dierks song
Didn't take long
Strangers turned to lovers
In a blink
Ooh ooh ooh

Most of the year I'm fine without you
But every single summer
I still think about how
We used to ride around town
In your hand me down ford
Park it by the water
Start floatin' like bobbbers
Until the sun kissed the shore
It was you and me
Living bigger than we could afford
Sitting in a sycamore tree
Every single summer
I wonder if you think about me
Red lips on a coke can
Caught myself falling for your farmer's tan
Still ain't found a better sunset yet
Ever since you left I've been trying
But I can't
Every single summer
I still think about how
We used to ride around town
In your hand me down ford
Park it by the water
Start floatin' like bobbbers
Until the sun kissed the shore
It was you and me

Living bigger than we could afford
Sitting in a sycamore tree
Every single summer
I wonder if you think about me
In your tee singing red dirt road
Slow kissing you in the bonfire glow
Do you wish you were there
Are you wondering where did it go
Where did it go
Every single summer
I still think about how
We used to ride around town
In your hand me down ford
Park it by the water
Start floatin' like bobbars
Until the sun kissed the shore
It was you and me
Living bigger than we could afford
Sitting in a sycamore tree
Every single summer
I wonder if you think about me

Lyrics Submitted by Michael Ray

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>