

Can't Forget You

Gloria Estefan

There's a part of me that's dying every time I hear your name
There's a part of me that's trying to bring back your love again
There are times when I just want to run, but there's no place to hide
Even though my heart is breaking in a million bits inside
I can make believe that none of this is true But I can't forget you, can't break free
I only have myself to blame, nothing feels the same without you
Can't you see, we can find tomorrow what we lost yesterday
What we lost yesterday There are nights when I lay wide awake thinking of how good it could be
Other nights I don't feel worthy of the love you gave to me
I remember not too long ago we both were here to stay
But it seems it happened overnight when I threw it all away
I can walk away and find somebody new But I can't forget you, can't break free
I only have myself to blame, nothing feels the same without you
Can't you see, we can find tomorrow what we lost yesterday
What we lost yesterday Hope that I can make you love me once again but I can't forget you But I can't forget you, can't break free
I only have myself to blame, nothing feels the same without you
Can't you see, we can find tomorrow what we lost yesterday
What we lost yesterday

Songwriters

Secada, Jon / Ostwald, Clay / Casas, Jorge Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>