Over

Evans Blue

You better crawl on your knees
Oh, the next to time you say that you love me, fall on your knees
'Cuz this time I won't be so kind, can't you see that
This is life and life is killing me? Is it yours? Is it mine?
Our sky fell down tonight, to wash away our painTell me over and over and over and over and over again
It never was the time for us, it never was the time to let me in
Show me over and over and over and over and over again
It never was the time for us, it never was the time to let me inYou better see how evil you can be when you see my evil smile
It's the one that you'll remember when I am not so kind
Can't you see that this is death and death is saving me
I say burn all of your bridges while you still have control of the flame
I know it's hard but youTell me over and over and over and over and over again
It never was the time for us, it never was the time to let me in
Show me over and over and over and over and over again
It never was the time for us, it never was the time to let me inYou've hardened to the point
So hardened to the pointTell me over and over and over and over and over again
It never was time for us, it never was time to let me in (Hardened to the point)
Show me over and over and over and over and over again
(Hardened to the point)
It never was time for us, it never was time to let me inTell me over and over and over and over and over again
The time for us, it never was the time to let me in
