

Hope Avenue

Stars

When it rains on Hope Avenue, you're gone
To pick apart my words as I'm watching you move on Bitter pills that I'm swallowing, choking But you're better
But you're better
On your own
For a while Holding back for you
To find that better memory
Holding back for you
Who always comes back running to you?
You know who
You know who
You know who
Start again when the shifts have changed
And you're gone
Make the bed up nice and fall into us, come run
Colder promises, 'cause we know it's not the last one So you're better
So you're better
On your own
For a while Holding back for you
To find that better memory
Holding back for you
Who always comes back running to you?
You know who
You know who
You know who
Time after time
I'll be your rose
Rising from the ash again
Time after time
You'll be mine
Until the wine makes us fall out again Holding back for you
To find that better memory
Holding back for you
Who always comes back running to you?
You know who
You know who
You know who
You know who
