

Silhouette

Depswa

Sometimes
Mixed emotions they ramble on inside
For a false sense of reality So I try to escape
From this place that brings me down
'Cause I feel there's nothing else
Left inside me anymore And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
Here in my mind again
And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find you anymore And I try to erase all these feelings that I have
Of that happy, perfect life
There's just a cold and darkened memory
And I have to pretend that you're here for awhile
But I know that's just a wishful temporary remedy And I want to, there's a need to
To believe in something
Something that won't leave me heartless
And I want to, there's a need to
Know that there's something
Something that won't pass me by And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
Here in my mind again
I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find you anymore I know that there's reasons to forget what was had
To leave all our past behind us
So I try to make myself forget
But it really hasn't happened yet
And I know that there must be a reason why And I want to, there's a need to
To believe in something
Something that won't leave me heartless
And I want to, there's a need to
Know that there's something
Something that won't pass me by And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
Here in my mind again
I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find you anymore And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find
And I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find you anymore I thought I saw a faint silhouette of you
But now I can't find you anymore
