

Red Moon

Laura Gibson

Oh red moon
A warm glow
To where we'll go from here
I do not know A porch light
A bitter song
For whom the caring words
I cannot tell I would
Long to
Carry your torch
And drink of your poetry Oh red moon
Oh mirror ball
Arms bent to pull you closer A lantern
A slow dance
You put the courage
Back into my steps I would
Long to
Carry your torch
And drink of your poetry I would
Long to
Carry your torch
And drink of your poetry I would
Long to
Carry your torch
And drink of your poetry
