

The Other Side of Loneliness

Willamena

My heart breaks, every day
Just look around and you'll have to say
I wonder how things got this way
There's sadness everywhere I see tragedy in history
I read stories and they get to me
I see things as they could be
And things are better, things are better now (Chorus)
The other side of loneliness
It's like the sun breaking free from the storm
And the rain stops falling down
For a while, for a while
There's no bone-crushing loneliness
There's no wondering if you'll be missed
There's no wishin' you did something different
'cause things get better, things get better now I get tired of hearin' things
The talking heads and their noise machines
The sound covers a billion screams
One voice is never heard Now there's a distance to that light ahead
It seems so simple in my head
All the colors were vibrant and new
And I was the same as you (Chorus)
The other side of loneliness
It's like the sun breaking free from the storm
And the rain stops falling down
For a while, for a while
There's no bone-crushing loneliness
There's no wondering if you'll be missed
There's no wishin' you did something different
'cause things get better, things get better now Things are better now
The other side of loneliness, sing (Chorus)
The other side of loneliness
It's like the sun breaking free from the storm
And the rain stops falling down
For a while, for a while
There's no bone-crushing loneliness
There's no wondering if you'll be missed
There's no wishin' you did something different
With your life, with your life The other side of loneliness
The other side of loneliness

The other side of loneliness
When things get better, things get better now
