

Lazarus (In the Wilderness)

Funeral for a Friend

Revealing your desire, upon these ashes
In your fear, it will swallow the river that divides
There's no life in here at all
To seek this self decay
There's no life in here at all
To take these dreams away
This burning ever
Will conquer all you see
And this burning ever
Will bury your heart
There's no life in here at all
To seek this self decay
There's no life in here at all
To take these dreams away
So what are we all built upon
Soon fragile in decay
What are we all built upon
To take these dreams away
Why need a, why need a new faith
When the old is still okay
Will you still, will you still love this
As the interest in it fades away, as it fades away
As the interest in it fades away, it fades away
The interest in it fades away
