

Wolf Cries

Julia Harriman

The wolf cries for his lady
He misses her so
It's the call of the wild

The rain turns into snow
And the others are hiding from weather so bad
But he's out there searching for the love he once had

Lady come back to me
He cries and he cries
Himself to sleep
Saying lady
Worrisome me
I'll never give up
You're the salt to my sea

The wolf desperately wanders
He has to move fast
Tries to pick up the pieces
A clue from his past
If you love one then love them and let your love grow
â€˜Twas a fool who said you must let your love go

Lady come back to me
You'll cry and you'll cry
Yourself to sleep
Saying baby
Worrisome me
I'll never give up
You're the salt to my sea

So she lie awake in her den at night
With no kit beside her just dimming sunlight
And she hopes that one day the wolf will reappear
Till then she will live in a garden of tears

Baby listen to me
You're voice is the whisper
Of wind through the trees
Tell me baby, am I alone

Give me your secrets and you I shall throne

Baby come back to me
I'll cry and I'll cry
Myself to sleep
Saying baby...

Baby come back to me
We'll cry and we'll cry
Ourselves to sleep
Saying baby
Worrisome me
I'll never give up
You're the salt to my sea

Lyrics Submitted by Jakob Herrmann

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>