

Sundays

Moonbeams

Colored rubbers and a bedroom set
I wouldn't know it if it hit me
You take a little step and then it feels like love
    I think I better get a little of it in me
    Give me a kiss, I think it feels like love
    Give me a kiss, I think it feels like sunshine
        C'mon baby, light me up
I wanna look into your eyes until I go blind
    You think that you can do without me
        I can't do anything at all
    You think that you can do without me
        But I don't believe in Sundays
    And I don't believe in anything at all
    Your mother made you in a parking lot
    My mother made me out of flesh and wire
    Try to remember what you might forget
        I try to remember everything
    Try to remember so you don't disappear
    Try to remember so you don't fade away
    Your mother made you out of smoke and rain
    Your mother made you in a fire that's fading
        You think that you can do without me
        And I can't do anything at all
    You think that you can do without me
        But I don't believe in Sundays
    And I don't believe in anything at all
I wanna touch you for the things I'm losing
    I wanna touch you for my self-respect
    Give me a reason or I might stop breathing
        Give me a reason why I'm soaking wet
    Gotta stop breathing 'cause the sky is falling
    I might go out and watch the moon explode
    Give me directions to the highway crossing
        I'll go lie down in the middle of the road
    And you think that you can do without me
        I can't do anything at all
    You think that you can do without me
        But I don't believe in Sundays
    And I don't believe in anything at all

I don't believe in Sundays
And I don't believe and I don't believe in anything, in anything
And I don't believe and I don't believe in anything, in anything
And I don't believe and I don't believe in anything, in anything
And I don't believe and I don't believe in anything, in anything
And I don't believe in anything at all
