War In France

Perry Blake

Have you heard about the war in france?
6000 reasons not to dance
Nothing could comfort him
Blue is the blue, the blue withinHave you heard about the fight for spain?
300 villains on a train
Fearless, they drank their gin
Runs through our veins like bethlehemIt's all the same. people will laugh and cry again
It's all the same, lovers will live and die againAlone again, when will this stop,
When will it end?
Two moons but no sunrise
Never the twain for you and iIt's all the same, people will laugh and cry again
It's all the same, lovers will die and rise againHome at last, she runs in too quickly, much too fast
High in the skies above, children unborn will dream this loveIt's all the same, people will laugh and cry again
It's all the same, lovers will live and die againIt's all a game, living the lie and you a saint
It's all the same, the truer the blue, the less the gain
It's all the same
All the same
