

You Don't Wanna Know

Chelsea Williams

You know the phone is ringing
But you won't answer it
And I got something to say

I tried to find a better way
To play by the rules you gave me
But I can't hide from the truth

And now it's judgment day
And you've got nothing more to say
Oh well, now I see

You don't wanna know and that's okay
You turn around, save it for another day
There's nowhere to go and you don't mind
You put it down, save it for another time
You're trying too hard to make things fit
Maybe you should let it flow, let it go

Over and over and over

You know the lights are on again
But no one is home
And someone's at the door

Thought you were only sleeping
But those secrets you've been keeping
Have got you down on the floor
