Come the Wild Wild Weather

Sutton Foster

Time may hold in store for us glory or defeat
Maybe never more for us, life will seem so sweet
Time may change so many things, tides will ebb and flow
But wherever fate may lead us always we shall knowCome the wild, wild weather, come the wind, come the rain
Come the little white flakes of snow, come the joy, come the pain
We shall still be together when our life story ends
For wherever we chance to go we shall always be friendsWe may find while we're traveling through the years
Moments of joy and love and happiness
Reason for grief, reason for tearsCome the wild, wild weather if we've lost all we've won
We'll remember these words we say till out story is doneWe may find while we're traveling through the years
Moments of joy and love and happiness
Reason for grief, reason for tearsCome the wild, wild weather, come the wind, come the rain
Come the little white flakes of snow, come the joy, come the pain
We shall still be together when our life story ends
For wherever we chance to go
Wherever we chance to go we shall always be friends
