

When Everything Is Green

Julie Christmas

With eyes on the sand,
It might help to see
Each foot-printal mark
Where you've never been.
So strange is this place Where dread is true king.
I'll fold in a world
Where everything's green
When everything's green. Serpents around
Spread shadowy doubt
They crawl through your veins
Even raise from your [mouth].
When everything's green,
When everything's green.
The raindrops will come,
the world is undone.
When everything's green,
When everything's green.
The small set of [things],
Like a new skin of spring. New air in your chest
Breaths momentous death.
It slims over gowns
And [hental]-heart crest.
The red-hearted queen,
In all of her [things],
Steps into the ring
When it's green,
When it's green.
When everything's green. Serpents around
Spread shadowy doubt
They crawl through your veins
Even raise from your [mouth]. When everything's green,
When everything's green,
The raindrops will come,
And the world is undone.
When everything's green,
When everything's green,
The smalls that are dim
Like a new skin of spring. Serpents around.
Spread shadowy doubt

They crawl from your veins
Even raise from you mouth.
But the red-hearted queen,
In all of her face is into ring
When it's green,
When it's green. When everything's green,
When everything's green.
The raindrops will come,
When the world is undone.
When everything's green,
When everything's green.
The smalls set that are dim
Like a new skin of spring. When everything's green,
When everything's green,
The smalls. set that are dim
Like a new skin of spring.
