

Back to the Bed

Mad Caddies

I awoke to a feeling that I've felt before that slowly started stirring in my mind open my eyes to see the light bounce off the nightstand it illuminated memories of the night I was alone and she landed next to me an angel in her independent right But not me; a coward, a monster too scared to face the truth inside the light It all comes back to the bed it all comes back to the bed in your room It all comes back to the bed it all comes back to the bed in your room I started moving when the feeling that surrounded me was threatening to pull me through the floor I had to run pick up the pieces I was panicking I stumbled down the dark out to the door I was alone as people passed by me a broken man just waiting for a train and in the end I stood there at the station with nothing left inside of me but pain It all comes back to the bed
it all comes back to the bed in your room
It all comes back to the bed
it all comes back to the bed in your room To feel as one in the red light sun we watch it burn away tonight I was alone and she landed next to me an angel in her independent right
But not me; a coward, a monster
too scared to face the truth inside the light It all comes back to the bed
it all comes back to the bed in your room
It all comes back to the bed
it all comes back to the bed in your room

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>