The Weight Of The World

Editors

Keep a light on those you love
They will be there when you die
Baby, there's no need to fear
Baby, there's no need to cry
Every little piece in your life
Will add up to one
Every little piece in your life
Well, it means something to someone
You've fused my broken bones
Back together and then
Lift the weight of the world
From my shoulders again
Every little piece in your life
Will add up to one
Every little piece in your life
It will mean something to someone
Every little piece in your life
Will add up to one
Every little piece of your life

Will mean something to someone
You touch my face
Scarred with spurs in my ear
There are tears in my eyes
Love replaces fear
Touch my face
Scarred with spurs in my ear
There are tears in my eyes
Love replaces fear, fear
Every little piece in your life
Will add up to one
Every little piece in your life
Will mean something to someone
Every little piece in your life
Will add up to one
Every little piece of your life
Will mean something to someone

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/