another boring day

The Grabbies

When I woke up this morning I thought it'd be another boring day.
Start the coffee skip the shower I'm out the door and on my way.
But then the phone rang and I'll never forget the words you'd say.
My dad was dying this could be his last day.

I never knew that you could die.
And I always wanted to be by your side.
I should have seen it coming.
You lived your life so recklessly.

Got a second chance now and I hope you choose sobriety.
Cause I'd never forgive you if you died and killed someone.
Put your past behind you.
Let's make your future a bright one.

I want you to know, that I will be with you every step.
I want you to know, that I am proud and confident.
I want you to know, I will always be right here for you.
I want you to know, together, we can work this thing through.

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com
written by Arens, Brynn
Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/