

Born in the Desert

Robyn Cage

I was born in the desert
In the year of the flood
In the city of the temple
Bathed in bloodI've walked through fire
I've shed my skin
I know where I'm going
I'm ready to beginYou tell me I'm too late
You tempt me to walk away
I'm pushing this boulder up the mountainside
Nothing to show for how hard I've triedIt's not in vain
It's gonna rainI'm just getting started
Not going down
I've come this far
I won't turn aroundA voice in me rages
A noiseless shout
Silently screaming
Let me out, let me outYou tell me I'm too late
You tempt me to walk away
I'm pushing this boulder up the mountainside
Nothing to show for how hard I've triedIt's not in vain
It's gonna rainI've died the little death of a thousand little cuts
I resurrected, rose from the dust
Wandering the desert searching for a dream
I finally found who I was born to beYou tell me I'm too late
You tempt me to walk away
I'm pushing this boulder up the mountainside
Nothing to show for how hard I've triedIt's not in vain
It's gonna rain
I was born in the desert
I was born in the desert
I was born in the desert
