

Across the Horizon

Waken Eyes

Take a hold of my hand
And I'll take you where the sunlight shines
Take a look in my eyes
Reflections of love whisper by Gentle words and they always bleed through Always for you, pull me inside
Shrouded by your own isolation
Disappear across the horizon So you've found a place to hide away withered heart down in dismay
I know it's never easy
To lose that comfort within
To forget who you have been
Risk that change and begin That long and lonesome road now
I bid you farewell
I bid you farewell
You and I will rise
Take this life again Reflections of my past they haunt me still
I circle this temptation
In search for the grace that never comes These virtues of my life they taunt me still with patience, the way is always clear
This raven disappears Come with me to the farthest seas
To a life where the wind blows free
Take my hand, leave this baron wasteland.
Reveal the path of your mystery. Come with me to the farthest seas
To a life where the wind blows free
Take my hand, leave this baron wasteland.
Reveal the path of your mystery.

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>