Country Song (2002 Remastered Version)

Duncan Browne

Looks like itâ€™s gonna be another stormy night
The windâ€™s in the orchard
The summer has taken flight

When I saw you today
You looked so countrified
I could not believe my eyes
But on reflection
It was no surprise

Our differences lie buried in the past I used to believe that nothing was made to last You must believe in me
And I must believe in you That way we can see our day through

Back in the the city theyâ€™re working from nine to five But out here in the country
itâ€™s easier to be alive

The logs in the fire are crackling away
The moon is beginning to shine
And Iâ€™ve just seen a bottle of old red wine

That stubborn man who lived inside me has finally died
And now Iâ€™m going to show you the things he used to hide

Never stand in front of me Never stand right behind
We were meant

to be side by side
We were meant
to be side by side
We were meant
to be side by side

Lyrics Submitted by Richard Gagnon

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/