

Leaving Town

RollerBlue

I heard you may be leaving town
Why did that not surprise me
Flying away to who knows where Leaving all your lies here You sent me a postcard, made of your memories
As long as you're moving, you don't have to explain
One less road to travel along, and one more prize for you Was it something I said, that I missed, now you've
gone away
Did I not see the signs, was it something I didn't say
One reason to leave, one thing that I'll never know
No reason to stay, no more you and yesterday You'd talked of places you hadn't seen
As though they missed your presence
Waiting to share all that you knew
Adding to your experience You sent me a postcard, made of your memories
As long as you're moving, you don't have to explain
One less road to travel along, and one more prize for you Was it something I said, that I missed, now you've
gone away
Did I not see the signs, was it something I didn't say
One reason to leave, one thing that I'll never know
No reason to stay, no more you and yesterday I'm sure you've had lots of things, to keep you amused
I bet you had it all planned out, yeh it's all about you Was it something I said, that I missed, now you've gone away
Did I not see the signs, was it something I didn't say
One reason to leave, one thing that I'll never know
No reason to stay, no more you and yesterday I heard you may be leaving town
I heard you may be leaving town
