

What You Crying For

Girls Aloud

Stone, broke, it's all just a joke
You're burning all your money
And you're breathing your smoke
Your eyes shine, the one that decline
But only 'cause you've crossed the line
Sink, swim, oh, where to begin?
You're never gonna get it
'Cause you always give in
You're smooth, fair and out on the edge
So when you gonna put your devils to bed?
Boy, what you looking for?
When the world's in the palm of your hand
And what's the crying for?
About the rules in your life that you never had
So don't justify, you're so broke inside
You're running like a blind man
With your hand on your heart
Swearing never again
No shame, you did it again
You take my umbrella while I stand in the rain
The last time I give you mine
You knew it when you crossed the line
Sink, swim, oh, where to begin?
You're never gonna get it
'Cause you always give in
You're smooth, fair and out on the edge
So when you gonna put your devils to bed?
Boy, what you looking for?
When the world's in the palm of your hand
And what's the crying for?
About the rules in your life that you never had
So don't justify, you're so broke inside
You're running like a blind man
With your hand on your heart
Swearing never again
You don't care it's cold out there
You don't mind, anytime
You don't care it's cold out there
You don't mind, anytime
What you looking for?
When the world's in the palm of your hand
And what's the crying for?
About the rules in your life that you never had
So don't justify, you're so broke inside
You're running like a blind man
With your hand on your heart
Swearing never again
Boy, what you looking for?
When the world's in the palm of your hand
And what's the crying for?

About the rules in your life that you never had
So don't justify, you're so broke inside
You're running like a blind man
With your hand on your heart
Swearing never again

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>