

That's My Heart

Lindemann

Your heart is a diamond
Every soul wants to steal it
From your fort, your fort of skin
You let nobody in
Your heart is a diamond
A bleeding treasure
Crashed together by
Grief and violence
Tons of pain, big pressure
Your heart is a diamond
So hard and cold
So uncut and so silent
In a breathing vault
That's my heart
Let me help it feel
That's my heart
What they all want to steal
Your Heart is a diamond
every man wants to steal it
Deep inside your fort of skin
You keep yourself concealed
Good hearts are so hard to find
I will wait and stay
A diamond ring will take this place
Around my soul one day
That's my heart
Let me help it feel
That's my heart
What they all want to steal
That's my heart
Let me work that mine
That's my heart
Let me help make it shine
I lick your heart, I taste the pain
I kiss your skin, it feels the same
Your bitter lips
There is no light
At the end of the tunnel
Between your hips
That's my heart
Let me help it feel
Let me into guard
What they all want to steal
That's my heart
Let me work that mine

That's my heart
Help me, help make it shine
