Noble End (Early Version)

Lagwagon

He grew up with nothing
He lived and died poor a father of four He left his family temporarily for a future based on words of chicanery They said join the Army
Join the Navy
He joined the Marines and his children were proud but exhaltation was exhausted and patronage died when this expendable number left his family of five Imposture
and all that man wanted was to provide a better existence for his kids and wife
An investment that cost him his life
A family of ethics has...
A fatality of war can't be noble enough to justify the loss of life so young Continental security Atonement, there's no such thing
There was no hero in the end
Only letters of resent, remorse, regret Bitter resent
Imposture
and all those boys wanted was to be alive,
a return of existence yet so many died and those who returned were alone with nothing awaiting at home Again the headlines read
"A Noble Soldier Finds A Noble Ending" They are the ones who can be done without Expendable numbers forgott no doubt
A family of ethics has died
