Demolition

Patrick Wolf

Since i met you. this house has started to decay and every wall that once was clean. has turned a shade of grey.so much to rescue. so much you just cant understand now the streets are dark and empty. and the problems in our hands.i cant leave you. see back home my house is falling down.

i cant leave you. and back home my house is falling downsince i met you. my basement has started to bleed the floors are all collapsing. still im begging to be free
