Under the Rain

Prozak

The sky was hot
Its rays beat down on my head
I looked up vast and cloudless it cast unblinking eyes down on me
Its rays beat down on my head
I tried to look away
But it's horizons drew me in
I was waiting for its changeFor the sigh of shadows
I began to move in time
While it beat down hot and silent
Waiting for change
For the silence of shadows
While it beat down hot and silent.. silent.. silent. silent..I was dancing on that summer day
Thirsty landscape yearning for your call
The dark skies would they shadow me now
I was waiting there for you to fallCome cover me
Like silver tears again
Come cover me
Like silent tears again
Come cover me
Like silver tears again
Come cover me
Like silent tears againThe air was hot
Like fists pounding in my head
I looked around
Still was the sky and cloudless
There was something keeping me there
Thunder shaking on that heavy dayThe dark skies they shadowed me there
And I stayed there in the summer raincome cover me
Like silver tears again
Come cover me
Like silent tears again
Come cover me
Like silver tears again
Come cover me
Like silent tears again(and again and again and again....)(heavy rain begins to fall)You fell like a thousand petals and drenched me with your tears
I was dancing on last summer day
While you continued to fall
And drench me with your tears

I was dancing on last summer day
The last summer day(and again and again and again....)You fell like a thousand petals and drenched me with your tears
I was dancing on last summer day
While you continued to fall
And drench me with your tears
I was dancing on last summer day
The last summer day(thunder)

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/