

American Hearts

Air Supply

They were married in September, back in 1969
They traveled, these two Indians
To find some peace of mind, they stood for love and freedom
They were children of their time, oh, oh They lived in a world that was cold and uncaring
They swore they would change it with loving and sharing
They'll never live like their parents have done
Their innocence shone like the sun American hearts
So filled with emotion
American hearts
So easily broken Now they've got a family and a cottage in the hills
He's always working late to pay the mortgage and the bills
And she has trouble sleeping
So the doctor gives her pills, oh, oh Who are these strangers who used to be lovers?
Now they've got nothing to say to each other
Too far apart to discuss their mistakes
They filed for divorce and it breaks their American hearts
So filled with emotion
American hearts
So easily broken Ah, American hearts
Ah, American hearts, American hearts Now that it's over, they'll each go on living
Never forgetting but somehow forgiving
They'll care for their children, protect them with pride
And that's how their dream will survive in American hearts
So filled with emotion
American hearts
So easily broken American hearts
So filled with emotion
American hearts
So easily broken

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>