Unbound

Naghmeh Farahmand

I knew a plant whose roots were bound
And then returned into the ground
Every day I watched it grow
Every day it struggled soRoots were bound, the roots were bound
The roots were bound into the ground
Watched it grow, watched it grow
Watched it as it struggled soI dug it up, I cut the twine
And so like this I made it mine
I watched it drink and watched it feed
And grow beyond it's simple needCut the twine, I cut the twine
Cut the twine and made it mine
Watched it feed, watched it feed
Watched it feed the simple needUnbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the ground
Unbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the groundI was once tied at the root
Confined with twine, both mind and foot
I cut it loose and now am free
As anything alive can beAt the root bound, at the root
At the root, both mind and foot
Am free, now am free
As anything alive can beUnbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the ground
Unbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the groundUnbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the ground
Unbound, roots unbound
Unbound into the ground
