

Red Sea Sky

Zach Ashton

Living on the sand for a while Taking everything that we could
I could be somebody you want
Take a chance Emptiness is part of the wind heat rises up from the ground we can be whatever we want if we want Under the red sea sky I thought about everything we've done.
Follow the dark of night you'll find the way to get back to the sun
Under the Sinai moon you say the names of people that you've loved
Follow the dark of night you'll find the way to get back what you've lost Color in a colorless land
Mountains are fading away
Faces come out of the stone
Of the stone Staring at the sea, its alive
Drinking tea in the afternoon sun
We can be wherever we want
Sometimes Under the red sea sky I thought about everything we've done.
Follow the dark of night you'll find the way to get back to the sun
Follow the dark of night you'll find the way to get back what you've lost
