

Down and Out

Honky Tonk Hustlas

well, I've been settin' right here alone wantin' for her to come back home but everyday, it's still the same old song she never has much time for me and I'm as lonesome as I could be and idn't the life that gon' a be the death of me it's that lonely time of day when the sky, turns Gray and I know what's what it's like to do without but now I'm all down and out take a drink to ease the pain but it's just more of the same life keeps gettin harder everyday and I wish that she was here I just want to have her near but now I'm driftin farther, year by year is that lonesome time of day

and I know what it's like to do without

I feel my end is strong near but I don't feel any fear she's too busy to notice or even care until I draw my final breath tha hurts all I got left 'cause there's lots a things that's way worse than death
