

Hymn to the Pillory

Nothing

spent summers in a well watching pale moons disappear alone and crucifixion seems noble when paradise is hell
atone
i think we're far from home and now you're free let go jump into white unknowns but i can't shake it, i can feel it in my bones i shut my eyes, our hands let go spent winters locked away the snow would swallow everything and drown
a pendulum hangs over me forever swinging violently come down
please come down on me
