Illusive Consensus

Epica

So sweet caress, never long to last!
You entered my soul and gave hope to my life.So sweet caress, never hope to last!
You left me behind all alone and aghast
Capured inside such an austere ElysiumImperfect feelings, futile greef
Love a device against all solitude
As it all went on, the love became
A field in a dream that once had been realSo sweet caress, never long to last!
Destroy this illusion we need a change of fate!
Your frantic thoughts are only a condemned cryPrimo somniare videbamur deinde veritas se praecipitavitI secretly longed for something which had never existedFirst I thought it was a dream but then it smashed into reality
Beautiful on the outside, decayed deeply withinI secretly longed for something which had never existedDevoted to a body without a soulNumquam non tibi diffidam
