Your Pretty Smile

Damien Dempsey

Oh, your pretty smile banish any gloomAnd when I frown I feel unsound, I drag you down to ground level
I interrupt your flyin' high and summer sky in your mind
But then you grab me by the scruff and we're up, up and over
Over the dirty men, the streets where I retreat from livingYour pretty smile, it could light up any room
I've seen it many times banish any gloom
Darlin', don't you ever stop with that smilin', yeahYour pretty smile, it could light up any room
I've seen it many times banish any gloom
Darlin', don't you ever stop with that smilin', yeahOne time I've seen the low lands green, I was sixteen and spellbound
I think of you when I glance over these old reels
Greta Garbo, Brigitte Bardot, Marilyn Monroe, such photos
The smog descends around my silhouette of dreamsYour pretty smile, it could light up any room
I've seen it many times banish any gloom
Darlin', don't you ever stop with that smilin', yeahYour pretty smile, it could light up any room
I've seen it many times banish any gloom
Darlin', don't you ever stop with that smilin', yeahBaby, baby, baby, baby
Baby, baby, baby, babyYour pretty smile, it could light up most any room
I said your pretty smile, it could light up most any room
I said your pretty smile, it could light up most any roomYour pretty smile, your pretty smile could light up most any room
Your pretty smile, your pretty smile could light up most any room
Your pretty smile, your pretty smile could light up most any room
