One Time Too Many

Building 429

All the little pieces of time
Are adding up to nothing again
You'd think I'd finally get this right
I think, I've fought it one time too many
Just one time too manyAnd I'm the king of nothing today
Looking up to heaven I call Your nameCome on and change me, You know what I need
Could you break away the ice frozen around my heart?
Could you reach through and help me to know You?
'Cause I'm stranded in this place
Falling on my face over and over againI'm holding onto all my mistakes
Thinking I'm not worthy of grace
Well I need to know You love me tonight
'Cause I've fallen one time too many
Just one time too manyIs it always gonna be this way?
Looking up to heaven I call Your nameCome on and change me, 'cause You know what I need
Could You break away the ice frozen around my heart?
Could you reach through and help me to know You?
'Cause I'm stranded in this place
Falling on my face over and over againAm I really worth the price you paid for me?
I can't believe it
Am I really worth the price you paid for me?
I can't believe it
I hear you sayThat you'll change me, 'cause You know what I need
And You'll break away the ice frozen around my heart?
And You'll reach through and help me to know You
'Cause standing in this place
Calling on your name over and overCome on and change me, 'cause You know what I need
Could you break away the ice frozen around my heart
Could you reach through and help me to know You
'Cause I'm stranded in this place
Falling on my face over and over again
