Crossing Over

The Cool Cats

All perched alone he sits there broken
An elder man with storm clouds setting in his eyes
He counts the sands of time, remember days gone by
It seemed like yesterday before it washed away
Hey, don't wait for me there
Just find you're own way
Hey, don't wait for me there
'Cause I'll be there soon enough
The widow's life ticks up like clockwork
A thousand tears she's cried a hundred times before
But now that he is gone she's ready to move on
It all just fell away, it seems like yesterday
Hey, don't wait for me there
Just find you're own way
Hey, don't wait for me there
'Cause I'll be there soon enough
I'll be there soon enough
Hey, don't wait for me there
Just find you're own way
Hey, don't wait for me there
'Cause I'll be there soon enough
