

Different Lens

Max Milner

People, trying to make sense, of people They build up a fence and believe all, the things they were told We're all evil, these people We take sides, and defy, others lives Stereotypes, will divide, us in time Well I'm just looking through a different lens, a different way of thinking
And I'm just trying to make this all make sense Instead of living in it, and finally Sinking, sinking, drowning these rules that I'm thinking
I'm just looking through a different lens, to see if there's a difference To assume that
It will rain, cause the clouds, always do that Is the same to think I'm on, the wrong track Cause the ink on my skin has told you to think that Don't you think that We take sides, and defy, others lives Stereotypes, will divide, us in time Well I'm just looking through a different lens,
a different way of thinking
And I'm just trying to make this all make sense
Instead of living in it, and finally
Sinking, sinking, drowning these rules that I'm thinking
I'm just looking through a different lens, to see if there's a difference I was made, I was trained, through my whole life
Not to think for myself, for my own mind
Didn't buy it just ripped off the tag price
Made a change, now I see through my own eyes
I was made, I was trained, through my whole life
Not to think for myself, for my own mind
Didn't buy it just ripped off the tag price
Made a change, now I see through my own eyes I'm just looking through a different lens,
a different way of thinking
I'm just trying to make this all make sense
Instead of living in it, and finally
Sinking, sinking, drowning these rules that I'm thinking
I'm just looking through a different lens, to see if there's a difference I'm just looking through a different lens Trying to make this world make sense Oh Oh I'm just looking through a different lens, to see if there's a difference Just to see if there's a difference
