

My Refuge

David James Stewart

Sometimes the day can take so long
Other times the night goes by way too fast
You and I know where we belong
Still the waiting has a way of making it tough tonight
I could be the one to come and find you
I could be the one to stand beside you
And make you feel safe
I could be the one you could run to
I could be the one who provides for you
All that you need
You are the gravity that pulls me toward the center
Knowing that you're close to me there is nothing better
I cannot describe to you I cannot define
How your beauty captivates when it comes into my eyes
I could be the one to come and find you
I could be the one to stand beside you
And make you feel safe
I could be the one you could run to
I could be the one who provides for you
All that you need
