Falling for You

Ronnie Day

She calls him early cause she knows he'll be asleep she leaves a message after the beep she says shes better now but shes still incomplete shes trying hard to make her voice sound soft and sweet a couple hours pass till he picks up the phone he wasnt ready for the shock he holds his breath down he plays the message twice and then the dial tone reminds him that shes not around its a lonely sound

hes got perspective
and shes got nothin left
and he wonders why he cant go on

hes singin
could she would she have been thinking of me all along and if i asked her would she tell me the truth cause its a long way down when your hopes are high as mountains and i am worried that im falling for you shes like an hour glass that never got the sand she is hollow and transparent like an infant hes a lonely boy but he still loves his life he doesnt look to make a scene he looks to make right

hes got perspective
and shes got nothin left
and he wonders why he cant go on

hes singin
could she would she have been thinking of me?
all along and if i asked her would she tell me the truth?
cause its a long way down when your hopes are high as mountains

and i am worried that im falling for you

im holdin out im strong and im proud and theres a new heart ive got thinkin on me its time you place yourself take a look at this girl and youll see what i see

could she would she have been thinking of me?
all along and if i asked her
would she tell me the truth?
cause its a long way down when your hopes are high as mountains
and i am worried that im falling for you could she, would she be thinking of me? all along and if thats true, would she tell me the truth?

cause its a long way down when your hopes are high as mountains
and i am worried that im falling for you

sayin its a long way down when your hopes are high as mountains
and i am worried that im falling for you

Lyrics submitted by Iris.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/