

Purple Looks Good On You

Chant

Stumble to a room
I've never seen before
She sits on plastics sheets
On the floor
Smoke and incense
And mead
She will fulfill
My every need
The sun will rise just for me
Painting by numbers
Painting each other
Pass me the blue
Pass me the red
Because purple looks good on you
It was some time later
See that familiar face
Of that perfect stranger
Whatever happened to you
I haven't seen you
In all of these years
Does purple still look good on you?
The sun always rose just for you
The years have been good to you
Does purple still look good on you?
