

On the Esplanade

Julian Plenti

On the Esplanade, down by the sea
Baby, watch my back
I think somebody's been following me
You feel overcome, with trying to play it dead
You feel safe that way, is it better than just playing instead?
It was a big step for me to roll up my golden life
Should have saved, saved my energy

I'm awake today
It's so nice to see the windows wash my dreams away
And I prop myself up on my pillow
We've been through shaky times
But I'm glad you found your way
There was too much panic then
From here on it will be straight all the way
It was a big step for me to roll up my golden life
Should have saved, saved my energy

Changing with time, I can't wait for the sign
Is this right?
Day chose your side, but the day brings the pride of the light
Oh the peace comes at night; I will never break from this shadow of exile
To be blinded
Changing with time, I can't wait for the sign
Is this right?
Is this right?
