

Master of the Sea

Squire Parsons

While one night upon the sea,
A ship was tossing to and fro.
Breakers dashed on every hand,
As angry winds around did blow.
All on board were filled with fright,
As the mighty billows rolled.
Then they called upon the One
Who the wind and waves controlled.

Chorus:

When He reaches out His Hand,
Billows cease at His command.
Winds and waves obey His will
When He says to them, "Be still!"
What man is this they all did say
Whom the wind and waves obey?
Heâ€™s the One who sails with me;
Heâ€™s the Master of the sea.

Though the storms of life may rage
And the billows round you roll.
He can calm lifeâ€™s troubled sea
As He did in days of old.
As upon lifeâ€™s sea you sail,
Trust in Him who never fails.
Iâ€™m so glad He sails with me;
Heâ€™s the Master of the sea.

Chorus:

When He reaches out His Hand,
Billows cease at His command.
Winds and waves obey His will
When He says to them, "Be still!"
What man is this they all did say
That the wind and waves obey?
Heâ€™s the One who sails with me;
Heâ€™s the Master of the sea.
