

Two Kinds of Happiness

The Strokes

Happiness is two different things.
What you take and then what you bring.

One is pleasure,
one's dicipline,
one's devotion,
one's just the ring.

Desire and reward.
Long term and short term joy.

Don't waste your heart,
don't waste your heart.

One has nothing to dow with the other...
and the world is a cousins not brothers.

Hard to take you off of my love
one's an instant, one takes some will.
One give life,
and one makes you kill,
one's the means and ones for the end...

Desire and reward.
Long term and short term joy.

Don't waste your heart,
don't waste your heart.

and the world is a cousins not brothers.

Don't you give in,
you're beginning.
