Live For The King

Axel Rudi Pell

A dark night in paradise, the moon was on the rise
Yon can hear the cries when someone dies
On the scaffold in the valley of the kingThe knights turned to stone with their flesh and their bones
They were locked in chains in this evil game
Trying to escape from the masqueradeTo live for the king,
No one will ever win
You'll turn forever into stoneHiding from the sun, the mob is on the run
They're coming home again, it never ends
Losing all their minds (and their souls)To live for the king,
No one will ever win
You'll turn forever into stoneTo live for the king,
No one will ever win
You'll turn forever into stoneOooh! Oh yeah!Long ago in a land far away
They were living in the garden of evil
They felt the magic, they'd been strong
Burned in fire, turned to stone
And hiding their faces from the sunOooh, casting the spell
No you'reCatching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king
Catching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the kingThe damned, they lived in anger, built a tower out of stone
And felt the cold wind from the dark side of the moon
The juggler, the holy, the joker and the ghost
Trying to escape out of the valleyOooh, casting the spell
No you'reCatching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king
Catching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the kingCatching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king
Live for the kingCatching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king
Catching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the kingCatching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king
Catching a dream and you don't know what it means
Give up your life, live for the king

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/