

Speechless

Self Against City

All alone and doing better on my own
Until the telephone rings, plead your case with broken wings
You give yourself away to everyone and now there's nothing left for you
There will come a day when everything will come right back down on you
Come back, I know you feel the same
Speechless, I don't know what to say to you to pull us through Just when I assume that everything's alright,
You're gone again, I'm gonna spend my whole life wondering why you
Give yourself away to everyone and now there's nothing left for you
There will come a day when everything will come right back down on you
Come back, I know you feel the same
Speechless, I don't know what to say to you to pull us through it
You're right, I know that I was wrong, but I'm lost
I've been here for so long but please don't let it slip...I've got a lot to explain (I just wanted to say that I miss you)
There's so much we left unsaid (disaster comes with this distance)
There's no one left to blame (until the moment that you feel us closer)
But ourselves for feeling this way
Give yourself away to everyone and now there's nothing left for you
Today will be the day that everything will come right back down on you
Come back, I know you feel the same
Speechless, I don't know what to say to you to pull us through it
You're right, I know that I was wrong, but I'm lost
I've been here for so long but please don't let it slip...
Away
