

Pray for Rain

Julie de Azevedo

Living in a desert of dry and desperate souls
Drinking from the grail of science
Drowning in the facts we know
And wine from mammon's chalice like mirages in the sand
Will never satisfy the need for healing in our land
Don't you think it's time

We lift our eyes to the sky and pray for rain
With our arms open wide we pray for rain
God of heaven, God of earth
Only You can slake the thirst in this heartland
We pray for rain

Little seeds of faith are planted in the soil of the heart
Amid thorns and stony places
Amid earth frail and parched
But ground that's good and fertile
Where the seed can swell and grow
Is a soul where roots dig deeper and living water freely flows
Don't you think it's time
I think it's time

We lift our eyes to the sky and pray for rain
With our arms open wide we pray for rain
God of heaven, God of earth
Only You can slake the thirst in this heartland
We pray ...

Let it rain, let it pour
Let it sink into our souls
Oh let it rain, let it pour
Let it sink into our souls
Let it rainnn

We lift our eyes to the sky and pray for rain
With our arms open wide we pray for rain
God of heaven, God of earth
Only You can slake the thirst in this heartland
We prayyy... for rain

Lyrics submitted by Angeline Jacobs.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>