Setting Sun

Eskimo Joe

I've been waiting far too long
Staring at the sun
Waiting for the night to come
So I can get things done
I can't wait for this no more
My eyes have come undone
If my star will ever rise
Let it be the only one
And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come
And if it ever comes, you're forever young
You're forever young
Ice is just a remedy
For pain and rising heat
Hold it in your hands and watch
The puddles form around your feet
And if you drink the water
It might just stop the pain
Dreaming of the fever

Drowning holes around your name
And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come
And if it ever comes, you're forever young
You're forever young
If your scared about the future
I'm scared about the past
And if your feeling ill
It's cause the world is spinning fast
Yeah, you're staring at the sun
Yeah, you better, oh, hold on
And watch the sky become the ground
Forever young
And if I see you waiting for the setting sun
It will never come
And if it ever comes, you're forever young
You're forever young
