Wherever You May Be

Bonnie Raitt

As simple as breathing, I picture your face
All tangled in daydreams and shielded with grace
I feel you beside me againWherever you may be, lift up your head for me
There's somewhere in my heart, only for you
If I must do without, I'll let these sparks fly out
Across the wilderness from me to youAs certain as sunrise, your image unwinds
You're clearer than crystal, you fill up my mind
Now, I have you by my sideWherever you may be, lift up your head for me
There's somewhere in my heart, only for you
Though continents divide and lonely thoughts collide
Our Heaven will allow, no distance nowI can always close my eyes
Take your absence by surprise
Hold my breath and make believeAs simple as breathing, I picture your face
All tangled in daydreams and shielded with graceThere's somewhere in my heart only for you
If I must do without, I'll let these sparks fly out
Across this wilderness from me to youWherever you may be (Wherever you may be)
Lift up your head for me
(Lift up your head)
There's somewhere in my heart only for you
(Somewhere in my heart)If I must do without
(If I must do without)
I'll let these sparks fly out
(Ooh, baby)
Across this wilderness from me to you
(Across this wilderness from me to you)Wherever you may be
Lift up your head for me
There's somewhere in my heart only for you
(I'm missing you baby)
If I must do without
I'll let these sparks fly out
