

Voice Inside Your Head

Dead!

On this fucking run
What am I doing in here,
I don't know the names of places or people I've seen this year
Remember when you wrote me of?
You let go of the rope, that you kept around my neck,
When I try to speak, I just choke, on every word you ever said.
Now I am nothing but a stranger that lives inside your head. Now, I am here, I'm perfectly torn Between the fear of you and moving on.
I let you go, you never thought I would,
You put money on me, your money on me
And lost it all because you could
Said all I could, but it was never enough
... to patch things up
Then all I got was a blank stare
When your head told your heart there was nothing left in here.
This empty room, crumbling fall,
When you rode away like we never existed at all. Now, I am here, I'm perfectly torn Between the fear of you and moving on.
I let you go, you never thought I would,
You put money on me, your money on me
And lost it all because you could. Now, I am here, I'm perfectly torn Between the fear of you and moving on.
I let you go, you never thought I would,
You put money on me, your money on me
And lost it all because you could
All because you could
All because you could
All because you could
Now, I am here, I'm perfectly torn
Between the fear of you and moving on.
I let you go, you never thought I would,
You put money on me, your money on me
And lost it all because you could

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>